

DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY

Director of Clinical Psychology Programmes

We seek to appoint an experienced, dynamic, and ambitious Programme Director to lead our established Masters and our recently launched Doctoral Programmes in Clinical Psychology at the Department of Psychology, National University of Singapore. We seek applicants with a Ph.D. and/ or D.Clin.Psy or equivalent in Clinical Psychology, strong track record and demonstrated experience and excellence in research and/or teaching and clinical supervision, with priority given to candidates with a strong internationally competitive research programme and output. The post holder should also have excellent communication and proven leadership skills. Priority will be given to senior academic level applicants (i.e. Associate Professor/ Reader or Professor), although Senior Lecturers with excellent qualifications will also be considered. Academic rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Preferred start date is August 2019 or as soon as possible thereafter. Remuneration is competitive and includes medical, housing, relocation and other benefits.

NUS is a world-leading research-intensive university. The Department of Psychology is an internationally competitive department with an established undergraduate, research graduate and clinical psychology professional training graduate programme (https://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/psy/current/grad_clinical/programmeinfo.html), with excellent training facilities, including an established internal clinical psychology training clinic (<https://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/psy/chpc.html>) and strong professional relationships with hospital and community partners. Singapore is a modern, English speaking city state that is connected to the world via global commerce, finance and transport networks with a stable climate year round and a cosmopolitan mix of cultures and languages.
